Minton is Dead—Row at Nortonville—Christmas Flight at Kelly—Accidental Shooting—Heavy Snow Wednesday—Many People Marry and others Get in the Lock-up.

shot by his Father.

Walter Johnson, a little son of Mr. William M. Johnson, was shot in the leg Tuesday morning by his father, and quite badly hurt. It was the result of an accident. Mr. Johnson, in company with several friends, had started out for a hunt, his little son accompanying the crowd. They had not gone far before a flock of robins was found and Mr. Johnson, in adjusting one of the plungers of his gun, preparatory to shooting, pressed the cap too hard and an explosion occurred. His little son was standing close by and received a portion of the charge of shot in the calf of his leg, producing a very painful wound. He was at such close range that the flesh of his leg was also badly powdered.

Both Green and White.

Just as the wise-aces were discussing the old adage that a "green Christmas makes a fair graveyard," along came one of our lightning climatic changes and the green was speedily turned into white. Christmas eve was ugly and spring-like, Christmas day was still mild, but inclined to be cloudy. A drizzling rain at night turned into snow, and when daylight came Wednesday morning, the ground was covered with "the beautiful" and all day the hill continued, making the weather thoroughly disagreeable. When the snow finally stopped it was followed by a wave "as cold as Curse."

Minton Died Monday.

Chas. M. Minton, who was shot by Wm. Morrison, near Elizabethtown Dec. 16, in a dispute over a game of craps, died on Monday, the 24th inst. His would was regarded as fatal from the first, as he was shot through and through from the left side. The ball passed through both lungs. Morrison was under a bond of $150 in E. Q. Garrett's court, awaiting the result of Minton's wound. It will be necessary to have him answer to the more serious charge of murder or manslaughter. He is about 20 years old and a son of Jas. P. Morrison. Of course he was 40 years old and leaves a large family.

He Had a Gun Concealed.

Robt. Brewer, col., was arrested Monday night by C. A. Boyd, marshal of Crofton, on a warrant charging him with drawing a gun on an other. Mr. Boyd took the precaution to examine the prisoner before starting with him to the city and found a pistol concealed in his person. For this he was tried before Judge Morrow Tuesday and given 35 days in the work house. When Brewer shall have completed his sentence he will be arraigned on the first charge and the chances are that he will get another term.

Wreck on the L. & N.

The fast passenger train on the L. & N. was wrecked ten miles below Nashville Christmas night. Engine Shugars and his fireman were badly scalded, Postal Clerk J. W. Sarr had a rib broken and an unknown tramp who was stealing a ride was badly mashed. Several passengers were more or less injured. The train struck some coal cars on a curve and four cars left the track. The mail and express cars caught fire and burned.

Cutting at Kelly.

A report comes from Kelly station that a serious cutting affray occurred in that village Tuesday afternoon between Willis Boyd and Clarence McElroy, two young men living in that neighborhood. During the row young McElroy was stabbed in the side by Boyd and quite badly hurt. No arrests have been made.

Martin Allen and J. B. Foster, while under the influence of liquor, had a row at Nortonville, Sun day evening, when knives were drawn and freely used until both men were badly cut up, receiving serious, if not fatal, wounds. They fell out over some trivial matter.

POLICE COURT NEWS.

Judge Hanbury Has a Rush of Business, Mostly Christmas Jags.

This week has been a busy one for Judge Hanbury and a number of cases have been passed upon. Following is a list of the work: Roy Boates, col., breach of peace, sixteen days in the work house; Sam Medlock, col., b. p., thirty-one days; Jeff Merriweather, col., drunkenness, fined $6; E. L. Goulet, drunk, fined $6; W. L. Bradley, drunk and disorderly, fined $11; Marshall Campbell, col., drunk, fined $6; Wash Little, col., b. p., fined $11.

The above cases were disposed of on Monday, and on yesterday George Witty, on a charge of drunkenness, was fined $8, and William Barker, col., was assessed $11 for a breach of the peace. Nearly all the defendants cashed up their indebtedness to the city and were permitted to go. Two hadn't the money at hand, and will "do rock work," while one reprieved his debt.

Miss Laura Brand, a local belle, will be queen of the coming Saturday ball at Louisville.

A Vanceburg druggist has sued the Lewis County Republican committee for whisky furnished for the last election.

Will Feland is now editorially connected with the Owensboro Messenger, filling the place recently vacated by Scoopic Calston.

The "race war" at Quitman, Ga., subsided without any more bloodshed. Only five negroes were killed, instead of seven as first reported.

Mrs. Moon, a Nebraska widow, was kicked to death Christmas morning while milking a fractious cow. May the cow didn't lie Mrs. Moon's quarters.

While Judge Reeves' friends are preparing a contest against Guffey, Judge Reeves himself is authorizing the statement that he will make no contest.

In the matter of stealing, Henderson can go up head. The Gleener tells of a thief who stole a floral wreath from the new-made grave of a dead child.

This issue closes the KENTUCKIAN'S sixteenth volume. Wishing all of its readers a happy new year, it will begin the seventeenth volume next Tuesday, with a determination to merit the continued patronage of its friends.

Hon. W. T. Ellis, who was suggested for governor in some of the papers, has been heard from. He will under no circumstances be in the race. He is determined to retire from politics and devote himself to his profession.

Charles Ketchum Hardin has again been arrested by the Wells Fargo company. The detectives claim to have conclusive evidence this time that he stole the $5,000 for which he was tried at Nashville and released for lack of evidence to hold him.

Two Louisville railroad men, amuse themselves Christmas by throwing handfuls of nickels into crowds of newsboys to see them scramble for the coins. They spent $20 in exemplifying the truth of the old adage that "a fool and his money are soon parted." The same amount given in charity would have enabled them to realize that "It is more blessed to have been kicked off his legs had he stood alone—London Standard."

SOME BARBARIC CUSTOMS.

Fighting with Death—Fatal Tree—Kicking Matches.

Among the Hadowandas, a Sudanes tribe whose name was painfully familiar to us a few years ago, young men who wished to know whether they were another to a dreadful contest. After ceremonial cartel—which may be declined without injury, however, unless the youth refusing have fought once already and triumphed—both parties give, and at the same appointed all the participants of the village assemble. The champions are stripped to the waist, and they carry a whip of hippopotamus hide four feet long, one inch square at the base, with edges newly trimmed, as sharp almost as a knife. At a signal they exchange blows, and the combatants continue till one overfights or, very much more frequently, stumbles and falls exhausted, but still defiant. Blood streams at the first cut, as though the whip had been a sword almost, but the other holds out for half an hour.

Contests of strength between bears reaching to the very bone. The prize of these contests is a title, "Akhen-Benat"—Protector of the Maiden—whichever the victor bears until defeated or married. We can believe that the young men, especially with fighting for bait, would be interesting to know what advantages the title gives exactly, how the maidens regard their protector, whether he holds any official position toward them, and so forth.

A custom like this has spread, of course, among the neighboring tribes under various forms. That of the Abyssinian braves is described by Mr. Mansfield Perkins. The girls themselves play an active part there. When young people are gathered for amusement, after a church festival for instance, one of the maidens will bring a straws of green millet, which is full of life. Her lover's blood runs cold probably, but he must smile or she considers him a craven. When she has cut the pith into bits an inch long, he sticks them into his hair. The consequence sets every girl who respects her and her lover follows it. The young men form a circle with their arms extended. Blithely then, with many a jest doubtless, the maidens arrange their bits of pith, upright, in some fanciful design, on the boy's flesh, and see if they are not too thick or too thin, and they burn very slowly, but the helpless youth must stand and smile as well as he can until the blood and juice of the scared flesh extinguish them. It is, in fact, a peculiarly horrible form of tattooing.

The most terrible brutalities of this sort ever prevailed in Europe, we do not recall an evidence. The imagination of our forefathers did not carry them beyond downright fighting in one shape or another to prove their regard for the sex, baring individual example, and certainly not for the Indian savages in Sardinia—or had when Mr. Tyndale visited that island fifty years ago—but it does not seem to have been connected with courtship. This is the "Fraude pei." The combatants take station opposite to one another, with a scimitar or basket-like shield. The pith is never round the neck of either of them, or else clasps their hands firmly, holding them up with elbows bent at the level of the chin. Standing thus, supported on either side, they proceed to kick at one another to the sound of drums and a band, and to practice a maneuver which could possibly bring that antagonist to ground if the seconds did not hold him up. It appears to be a peculiarly stupid kind of game, but when two lusty peasants kick at one another with all their strength through they are perfectly safe, and the spectators, very ugly injuries must follow. The fight proceeds until one comes up to time, or until the unpriced declare that he would have been kicked off his legs had he stood alone—London Standard.

Chatelaine Bag.

Among the season's novelties are shown deep, pleated chatelaine bags or purses, with silver-rimmed tops in four pieces, which fold with springs in such a way that when closed the open aperture is square, and the contents can be seen at a glance, and easily reached. Dark red, old rose, green and other shades of plush are used for these reticules, which are evidently intended for home use.—Philadelphia Press.

$100 Reward, $100

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is "Carrab Hall's" Carrab Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

It's Aid an Average Boy Can Stamp 4,000 Letters an Hour—A Velocity That Will Run on Snow or Ice—Notes of Science.

HE MECHANICAL postage stamp licker is coming into general use. The sheets of stamps are torn into strips and these strips are connected into a long ribbon by wetting the gummed surface of the last stamp and applying it to the piece of white edging at the end of another strip. This continuous length of stamp is then wound on a bobbin and is visible in our illustration, but which is almost hidden in the rear part of the machine. At the front of the machine there is a shaft or table on which the letters are laid in succession, while the handle is turned. The following series of operations are performed: The strip is fed forward by an amount equal to the length of a stamp. The projecting stamp is wetted on the underside by a roller; the stamp is cut off, and is then firmly pressed on the envelope.

To perform these operations four cams are arranged on the main spindle, on which also is the handle. The feed is effected by a segment of a sector wheel, which, for a portion of each revolution, nips the stamp ribbon between a fixed roller in the bed over which the stamp is passed and under guides. The cam on the extreme right operates the dampening roller, shown just protruding from the front of the box. This cam is an arm having a roller at its end, which comes in contact with a vertical lever connected to a slide under the bed. At the front of the slide is a small cloth-covered wheel which usually stands in contact with water in a small trough. But after a stamp has been fed forward the roller is pushed out, wetting the under or gummed surface of the stamp and is then returned into the interior of the box. The cam on the left is operated by the cam, or roller bearing lever, shown between the feed and the dampening cam. This cam is effected by a spring. The last operation is to press the stamp in place. To effect this the left hand cam pushes a bell crank situated in the envelope.

KNOWLEDGE

Edging comfort and improvement, and tends to personal enjoyment, when rightly used. The many who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the uses of physical health, find greatest value in the spirit of the pure liquid laxative principles embodied in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable, pleasure and to those who desire the best and most beautiful properties of perfect laxative; effectively cleansing the system dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and is the best product in the medical profession, because it acts on the kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable surface.

Syrup of Figs is to take of all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Main Street.

The new store, "THE LEADER" is now on Main street.

In the building formerly occupied by the W. C. T. U. The ladies will find us in our new place ready for work and will be glad to see our many new friends and customers.

Our great CUT PRICE SALE still on.

Everything slashed and defied you to match the incomparable bargains we are offering.

Last week we said our goods must move, price was no object. It was not because we had too many, not because we needed room, away with such old time chestnut reason.

We are not afraid of the TRUTH or COM PETITION either. We claim our prices for equal value are 30 per cent, lower than the former.

If you don't investigate this you are throwing money away. Remember our goods are no cheap trash but such as are handled by first class men. Everything new and fresh this season. We have been told the law prices mentioned may be misleading.

The TRUTH is Simply COMPETITION.

A MAGNETIC WONDER.

The Remarkable Powers of a Man in Maine.

Interesting Story of an Old French Canadian and His Wonderful Magnetism—An Incident of His Life in India.

In the vicinity of Bond Hill on a cross road in Lewiston, lives an old man named Pierre Hubert Giguere. His abode is with a young French Canadian family who knew him when all lived in Canada on the St. Francis River. The man has a history as well as some marked peculiarities.

Let him tell his own story.

Born in Canada he early enlisted in the English army and was sent as lieutenant to India, where he fought in several battles and skirmishes. It was always said of him that while he was born he had reason to be, for he was impregnable. This was no doubt caused by the fact that he possessed then, as he does now, a remarkable power, the like of which a man in the eastern part of the state is said to possess. He seems to be a magnetic person and can allay pain by the laying on of hands, viz., he rubs gently the parts affected and pain ceases for some time. He does not understand the cause of it, but uses it freely upon every occasion when he can.

Once, he says, in India an officer high up in the service was wounded by a rifle ball, which lodged somewhere in the man's abdomen. Pierre offered to tell the doctors where it was, but was declined the chance by the stiff-necked physicians, who believed no more in his jugglery than that of the Sepoy magicians.

"I can make one of you tell where the ball is," said Pierre. "Go ahead," said a doctor, laughing.

Pierre walked up to a young physician who was half inclined to believe him, and, placing his hand upon the lad's head, said: "Sleep."

The young man sank into a chair and slept. Pierre stood over him awhile and then said: "Tell the doctors where the rifle ball is."

"It is in the cavity of the abdomen where it has fallen from the ribs. Open the abdomen and you will find it on the left side. None of the intestines are injured."

"Am I a sephah?"

"No, you are a magnetic person with mesmeric powers."

Pierre says that they found the ball as indicated and after that his prestige was great. It was in India that he learned the fluent use of the English language.

Returning to Canada later in life he was engaged on a whaling ship as harpooner and made money there. He has been in the United States for ten years, though he came here from Fall River only last summer. He is about thirty years old and goes about but little. His power to cure headaches, toothaches and all minor kinds of aches and pains is simply wonderful. He cannot heal his own ills. As yet his fame as a magnetic healer has scarcely gone beyond his own neighborhood and the shadow of Bond Hill. He has no education and cannot read or write English, but in his knocks about the world he has picked up considerable information.—Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

MOLECULAR LIFE IN DIAMONDS.

Gems Declared to be Masses of Enormous Active Atoms.

If you think your polished diamond is a mere aggregation of inanimate crystals, you are away wrong. If you imagine that its components are devoid of orderly, coherent motion, you are equally mistaken. It has come to pass that we are given to understand that diamonds are masses of active molecules. Inasmuch as every body is composed of multitudes of exceedingly small yet not indistinguishable molecules, it might be concluded that in a solid, at least, these particles would be clustered together in an indivisible mass. This theory as applied to diamonds is incorrect, and had been completely overthrown by the researches and experiments of Sir Robert Ball, of Liverpool. The facts set forth by Sir Ball with reference to the structure of the diamond are fascinating. He asserts that were the sensibilities of our eyes increased so as to make them a few million times more powerful, it would be seen that the diamond atoms, which form the perfect gem when aggregated in sufficient numbers, are each in a condition of active movement of the most complex description.

Each molecule would be seen swinging to and fro with the utmost violence among the neighboring molecules, and quivering from the shocks it receives from encounters with other molecules, which occur millions of times in each second. The hardness and impenetrability so characteristic would at first sight seem to refute the supposition that it is no more than a cluster of rapidly moving particles; but the well-known impenetrability of the gem arises from the fact that when at into a stone it fails, because the rapidly moving molecules of the stone batter the metal with such extraordinary vehemence that they refuse to allow it to penetrate, events to mark the crystallized surface.

When glass is cut with a diamond, the edge which comes so hard is really composed of rapidly moving atoms. The glass which is cut is also merely a mass of moving molecules, and what seems to happen is that as the diamond is pressed forward its several particles, by their superior vigor, drive the little particles of glass out of the way.—N. Y. Herald.

STORING OF FLOUR.

Mobility of Receding Contaminated by Uncle Surroundings.

Ordinary bread flour is an article which is exceedingly liable to absorb odors. Therefore, especially care must be taken in storing flour, for it is for this that while he was born he had reason to be, for he was impregnable. This was no doubt caused by the fact that he possessed then, as he does now, a remarkable power, the like of which a man in the eastern part of the state is said to possess. He seems to be a magnetic person and can allay pain by the laying on of hands, viz., he rubs gently the parts affected and pain ceases for some time. He does not understand the cause of it, but uses it freely upon every occasion when he can.

Once, he says, in India an officer high up in the service was wounded by a rifle ball, which lodged somewhere in the man's abdomen. Pierre offered to tell the doctors where it was, but was declined the chance by the stiff-necked physicians, who believed no more in his jugglery than that of the Sepoy magicians.

"I can make one of you tell where the ball is," said Pierre. "Go ahead," said a doctor, laughing.

Pierre walked up to a young physician who was half inclined to believe him, and, placing his hand upon the lad's head, said: "Sleep."

"It is in the cavity of the abdomen where it has fallen from the ribs. Open the abdomen and you will find it on the left side. None of the intestines are injured."

"Am I a sephah?"

"No, you are a magnetic person with mesmeric powers."

Pierre says that they found the ball as indicated and after that his prestige was great. It was in India that he learned the fluent use of the English language.

Returning to Canada later in life he was engaged on a whaling ship as harpooner and made money there. He has been in the United States for ten years, though he came here from Fall River only last summer. He is about thirty years old and goes about but little. His power to cure headaches, toothaches and all minor kinds of aches and pains is simply wonderful. He cannot heal his own ills. As yet his fame as a magnetic healer has scarcely gone beyond his own neighborhood and the shadow of Bond Hill. He has no education and cannot read or write English, but in his knocks about the world he has picked up considerable information.—Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

The necessity for keeping the flour barrel on a raised rack away from the floor has frequently been mentioned. The barrels are often a source of trouble, resting on heavy castors, which are used on a piano, so that it may be frequently shifted and the spout underneath cleaned out. Or it may consist merely of two large beams, raised so that the barrel rests upon them, a space for ventilation beneath it. Where some such contrivance is not arranged and the flour barrel rests flat on the floor, it is likely to become dusty and the last baking is pretty sure to be of quite an inferior quality.

Wanted the Bell to Ring.

A little missionary church was being built in a blacksmith's shop. One of the active workers, or perhaps the missionary himself, had occasion to go into a blacksmith's shop to get some rods. The blacksmith was a Bohemian who could not speak a word of English, and another old Bohemian, by his name, was called in as interpreter.

After Mr. Plum's business with the blacksmith had been attended to Pete entered into conversation on his own account.

"What do you call him eh—goes boom-boom?" he asked, motioning with his hand in the direction of the church.

"Bell," said Mr. Plum.

"Hell, hell—yes yes," said the Bohemian. Well, I like to hear that bell, makes me think of my home—my mother, old mother, old sister I am, and I got some children, and I want children to be good. I want to hear that bell ring three times a day—morning, noon, and night—for my children I gift ten dollars—seven dollars to man to ring dat bell, and three dollars for wear and tear of dat bell."—Home Dictionary.

The Second Pic.

Women are wearing nowadays flower-looking pins in the shape of swords or daggers. The sight of so many of these pins in the shop windows reminds one that fashion is fickle and that not long ago other women enjoyed a similar favor that is now bestowed upon this era. It is not more than four or five years ago that all bits of jewelry were taking the form of gold and silver hearts. Either sentiment was rife at that time or hearts were rife at that time, for the women they were hardly made to serve every ornamental costume. They dangled from bracelets and necklaces, they were worn on watch-chains and wristbands, they even staved at you from the bowl of your teaspoon, and they were made into a kind of brooches and souvenirs.—Harper's Magazine.

"He young," mused the editor, looking over a poem that had just come in by mail. "He young and so gifted hardly strike us as the possessor of one of the most commanding and explosive talents emanating in the country. There is a vigor about his production truly remarkable in one so young, so fresh, so perceptive. And yet," added the editor, letting it energetically into the waste basket, "he can't work off on this paper a poem that tries to make 'virago' rhyme with 'Chicago'."

ABOUT THE WEED.

There were no tobacco sales this week, but next week the regular sales will occur. Receipts have improved very rapidly since the weed became in condition to handle and it is likely that some of the '94 crop will be offered in the next sales. Nearly all of the '93 crop has been disposed of and that little remaining in the warehouses will go off at a lively rate, now that the new crop is about to be placed on the market.

Louisville TOBACCO MARKET.

uary 1st, amount to 161,640 bds.
Sales of the crop of 1893 on our market to this date amount to 149,936 bds.

This has been the banner week for the Louisville tobacco market. Records being the largest within the history of any other market.

Receipts for the week amount to 6,177 bds. Sales for week 2,223 bds. The offerings included 950 bds. of new dark tobacco and prices for leaf of extra length continues to range from six and half to seven and three-quarters. There is no record to report in value, short, medium and good new leaf and lugs remain unchanged.

The following quotations fairly represent our market for dark tobacco 1893 crop.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to express our deepest heartfelt thanks to our friends in Hopkinsville and elsewhere for their many favors bestowed upon us during the protracted illness in our family. When our hearts were bowed down with sorrow and home was saddened by affliction, we suffered again from illness; kind friends came and administered to our comfort, who will ever be remembered by us with grateful hearts. May heaven's greatest blessing be showered upon them through life, is the earnest wish of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. MULLEN.

derful success with the parts of the old and the young. He is a master of the art of acting and has a remarkable power of making the audience forget that he is an old man. He is a true artist and a credit to his profession.

Landlord W. T. Cooper, prepared one of his big Christmas dinners

Tuesday, which have become quite a feature of the Phoenix Hotel. It was one of his finest spreads and was enjoyed by a number of invited guests as well as his regular boarders.

Clementine Mayweather, col., committed suicide at Paducah this week with a small pocket knife. She served her windpipe and died before she was discovered. She was dispended because her husband had deserted her, it is said.

Three young ladies, Misses Alice Loverd, Lucy Edmunds and Mary Fay, successfully passed the examination for teachers in the city schools last week. Misses Daisy Gardner and Edna Smyth had previously passed the same examination.

On the first Saturday in January one of these five young ladies will be elected to the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Lizzie Long.

Amy Lee, now starring with Frank Dowd and F. Aug. Anderson in "Pawn Ticket 210," is the daughter of Kew and Harry Watkins, whose names were household words in the south where they starred for so many years, with their own company,

"Little Amy" playing the child's parts in their various productions.

They retired from the stage a little over ten years ago and resided in their old home in 23rd street,

New York City, until the time of Mr.
Watkins' sudden demise of heart failure last February. Miss Amy's mother is now travelling with the company and playing also in order to be with her daughter. The former

"Queen Star of the South" will be happy to revive old and delightful memories and meet her many dear southern friends of former days.

Friday, December 28th, at opera house.
